LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

We desire to procure the services of a local agent in every Postoffice District in the State. Will our friends act, or procure the services of some efficient person in our behalf? Believing that the circulation of the Democrat may be materially extended, we make this appeal to our friends in its behalf.

☞To State legislation and authorities we look for the good order of society, the security of life and property, the protection of our homes, and all that is nearest and dearest to us, in the relations, duties and actions of life. It is dangerous and demoralizing to show contempt for State authorities and law. It undermines alike the foundations of State and National Government, by breaking up the social system. If home laws are not respected, the more general authority will not be regarded. —[Gov. Seymour's Message.

Perhaps the whole theory of the duties of a State, and what is embraced in the technical words State Rights, was never so truly, and yet so fully, expressed, as in the above extract from the message of Governor Seymour. In our interest in the restoration of the Union of the States, we have lost sight of the grave importance of that Government which protects us in the most immediate, necessary and important relations of life. The Governor and Legislature of a State have all of the immediate interests of the people in their hands. They are the guardians of their liberty, their property and their homes. All the crimes, except those few expressed in the Federal Constitution, against the nation—such as coining, counterfeiting the national currency, treason to the Union, and the like—are crimes not against the confederated nation of the Union, but the State. All our rights to property, personal security, and the like, derive their protection from the State.

At the present moment our Legislature have all of these grave interests in their hands. It is at such a crisis, too, as absolutely demands that they should act with the extremest circumspection in protecting, by every means in their power, the interests committed to their hands. It is wrong in a private individual to show contempt for State authorities and law; in those to whom the State interests are especially committed, it becomes a crime. If they neglect any laws necessary for the further security of persons and property they are recreant to the solemn obligations they have taken, and false to the interests entrusted to their care.

We hope our members will all remember that to them is committed, not the national affairs particularly, save in the great weight a State may have in influencing the Federal Government, but the peculiar protection of the people of the State in their immediate local interests. If they are fully impressed with this duty their course of action will be simple and plain.

Their first inquiry is, What interests now in this terrible crisis require immediate attention, and how far is it in their power as representatives in the councils of the State to protect them.

The Governor in his able message has suggested one caused by the war, and it is one of whose importance too much cannot be said. He says:

"Your State laws are already ample for redress of offences against the property of the citizen as the same have been ordinarily committed, but I suggest to you the propriety of other and more stringent laws against the infamous practice of Abolition soldiers in this particular (i. e. stealing negroes, &c.) and to do this efficiently there should be a solemn reaffirmation of the great truth, that in all free Governments the military is and must be subject to the civil authority, and by proper legislation give it a practical meaning by providing for its maintenance at all hazards.

No member has a right to neglect this sacred duty. It is a case to meet which all law is especially made, and the making of these laws is the peculiar duty of the State Legislature. So far as they fail in this, no matter under what pretext, so far do they fail in what they are chosen for and are worthy of condemnation.

If the present laws are inefficient for the security of that class of property, they should be made more stringent and guarded in every way that would give them practical effect.

If any member neglects or refuses to do this from any consideration of the intentions of the Federal administration, or from a desire to sustain it, he is false to his duty to the State. Such considerations should have no influence whatever. The people do not elect members to the State Legislature either to sustain or oppose a Federal executive, but to make such laws as are necessary for the good of the State in the security of the citizen. Their sustaining or upholding an Administration, so they do not infringe upon the Federal Constitution, is merely contingent and dependent upon other duties. As far as the discharge of those duties uphold him, they are bound to do it; so far as it opposes him they are equally bound. It has been customary, and is proper, to approve or condemn the principles upon which an Administration is conducted, but this is optional with the Legislature. To make necessary laws is obligatory. They are chosen for no other purpose.

We hope to have no shrinking or dodging upon this in the Kentucky Legislature. We want those elected to remember what they were chosen for, and to suffer nothing to make them swerve from the path of duty. What is suggested by Governor Robinson is a clear duty, and one to which the people will hold the members bound.

☞We hope the loyal men of Kentucky, who are induced to uphold the present Administration merely because it is the party in power, and believe that it aims at the restoration of the Union, will read the following extract from the Congressional Globe, of the 8th of this month. Stevens is the chairman of the most important committee in the House—that of Ways and Means—and the Republican leader in that body. It will be seen that he explicitly acknowledges that the Union is broken up in so many words. Are the loyal people ready to go thus far? if so, let them sustain the Administration and Mr. Stevens, and we will guarantee that, in less than six months, the Southern Confederacy is acknowledged independent:

"The disorder having abated, Mr. Yeaman (Ky.,) was understood to inquire what the gentleman would say to the vast multitude of people who had recently declared themselves in the elections

"Mr. Stevens would say they were about as loyal as the present Governor of New York, and they would do no more with the Administration for the suppression of the rebellion than the Governor would. He did not regard the gentlemen on the other side as engaged in its suppression, judging by their votes. In reply to Mr. Dunlap, he repeated that he did say, when the bill for the admission of West Virginia was under consideration, he found no warrant for it under the Constitution.

"Mr. Dunlap—I voted against the bill because I believed it an unconstitutional act.

"Mr. Stevens—And I voted for it because it did not come under the Constitution, which did not embrace a State in arms. This was his deliberate conviction. We have resorted to a blockade. We and the foreign powers have admitted the so-called seceded States to be a belligerent power. This being so, they were placed precisely in the condition of an alien enemy. Nothing was more plainly within the law of nations. Wherever a land war springs up every obligation previously existing, whether treaty, compact or contract, is abrogated. They are then, until peace, governed by the laws of war; the Constitution has no binding effect or influence.

"Mr. Dunlap—Are not the seceded States still members of the Union?

"Mr. Stevens—My opinion is that they are not.

"Mr. Dunlap—Did the ordinance of Secession take them out of the Union?

"Mr. Stevens—The ordinance of Secession, backed by armed power, did take them out, and as far as that operated, did take them out of the Union.

"Mr. Dunlap—My opinion is that they are still members of the Union.

"Mr. Stevens—They are not.

"Mr. Dunlap—If these States are not in the Union, how do you propose to pay officers for collecting revenue in States not in the Union.

"Mr. Stevens—I propose to levy and collect taxes as a war measure, just as all nations levy and collect them on all the territory they conquer. I would not only do this as a war measure, but, if necessary, take every inch of territory of every disloyal man, and his real and personal estate, and sell them for the benefit of the nation and carrying on the war. We are to treat them as provinces until we conquer them. It is absurd to say a man in arms is entitled to the same constitutional provisions as a loyal man, when he does not obey the laws, and repudiates their binding obligations."

☞The opposition to the writ of habeas corpus, and the general aim of the Republican party to destroy the lines dividing Federal from State authority, does not embrace all their hostility to civil liberty. Upon all other subjects they are as narrow minded and bigoted, and daily give evidence of principles that seem to savor of the days when Isabella expelled the Jews from Spain, and King John tortured the same race to force them to pay money into the public treasury.

It will be remembered that General Grant recently issued an order expelling all of this active business class of people from his lines, without exception or qualification. The public was startled with such an extraordinary proceeding. It seemed impossible that any one brought up in a free country, like ours, could ever possibly be guilty of such a violent and summary proceeding. Many of these had been residents for fifteen or twenty years within the territory included in his lines. They were loyal, opulent and valuable citizens. They were entitled to every protection the Government could give. This being the condition of affairs, Mr. Pendleton introduced a resolution in the Lower House condemning the order.

Upon the vote it stood—yeas 56, nays 53; all of the Republicans voting against the condemnation. That citizens may know who these men are who would make religious belief a test, we here publish the list from the Congressional Globe:

YEAS—Messrs Aldrich, Baker, Baxter, Beaman, Bingham, Jacob B. Blair, Samuel S. Blair, Wm. G. Brown, Buffington, Burnham, Chamberlain, Clark, Frederick A. Conkling, Davis, Duell, Dunn, Edwards, Eliot, Ely, Fenton, Samuel C. Fessenden, Fisher, Gooch, Hickman, Horton, Hutchins, Julian, Francis W. Kellogg, William Kellogg, Kilbourn, Lehman, Lovejoy, McKean, McKnight, McPherson, Maynard, Mitchell, Moorhead, Nixon, Noell, Olin, Patton, Alexander H. Rice, John H. Rice, Edward H. Rollins, Shanks, Sheffield, Stevens, Stratton, Francis Thomas, Trimble, Trowbridge, Verree, Washburne, Wheeler and Wilson—56.

NAYS—Messrs. William Allen, Alley, Ancona, Biddle, Blake, Calvert, Colfax, Roscoe Conkling, Conway, Cox, Dunlap, Edgerton, Thomas A. D. Fessenden, Goodwin, Granger, Haight, Holt, Harding, Holeman, Johnson, Kerrigan, Knapp, Law, Lazear, Low, Mallory, Menzies, Morris, Noble, Norton, Odell, Pendleton, Perry, Price, Riddle, Sargent, Shiel, William G. Steele, Stiles, Benjamin F. Thomas, Vallandigham, Van Valkenburg, Vibbard, Voorhies, Walker, Wall, Webster, Wickliff, Windom, Wood, Woodruff, Worcester and Yeaman—53

So the resolution was laid upon the table.

Mr. Washburne moved to reconsider the vote by which the resolution was laid upon the table; and also moved that the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

SOMETHING WORTH NOTICE.—We observe in the Journal of yesterday an advertisement of Quartermaster Jenkins, dated January the 14th, for bids for 4,500 cavalry horses. Sealed proposals are to be received up to January the 20th, at 12 o'clock M. While we do not impugn the good faith of Quartermaster Jenkins, who is said to be a good officer, we would call his attention to several facts in the case which have an ugly appearance, and will be very apt to be misconstrued.

In the first place, the advertisement is in only one Kentucky paper, and Kentucky has always been famous for horses; while it is in two papers in Indiana. The circulation of the Journal is deservedly large, but there are thousands of persons in the State equally loyal, who prefer other papers, and who will never see Captain Jenkins' advertisement. The trifling additional expense in putting it in two or three other State papers of unquestioned loyalty would be small indeed in comparison with the benefit to be derived from an additional circulation.

A still more questionable fact is the very brief space of time which is allowed for the proposals to be made. We ask, what dealer, without some previous knowledge that horses would be wanted, would be prepared, within six days, to say certainly that within forty or fifty days he could supply four thousand five hundred horses, of a certain hight and description, and none of which are to be mares according to the specification?

We take it that for any practical effect the advertisement allows so short a time as to be really useless. A dealer who went into it would have no time to know whether he could fulfill his contract or not.

We do not say it to censure Capt. Jenkins or to insinuate a censure, but we advise him that the general verdict of those with whom he is not acquainted will be that the whole affair was cut and dried; that the parties who are to obtain the contract were already known before any advertisement was made, and that it is a mere form, purposely made short to avoid competition.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS.—We publish, in this morning's paper, two letters from soldiers, which demand the attention of the public.

One gives us an inside view of the intense dissatisfaction created in the army by the President's recent extraordinary proclamation. It is what we had to expect and lament. The views there given are strong and tersely put, and have a soldierly directness about them somewhat different from the oily way in which the radical politicians put it.

The second letter is from Nashville, and is upon a subject to which we have before directed attention—the remissness of the Government, which has millions to waste on freeing negroes, but no pay for the soldiers.

We hope Governor Robinson will take the suggestions of this gallant soldier into immediate consideration, and furnish every facility for carrying the soldiers' pay into the hands of their suffering families.

We thank our correspondents and hope to hear from them again.

ANOTHER PROCLAMATION WANTED.—The Chicago Post of Sunday has the following:

General Tuttle, commandant at Cairo, has dispatches from citizens of Ashley, in this city, informing him that the negroes or "contrabands" brought into that place have been put in jail, and that the sheriff is selling them to those who will buy them. These parties ask, can anybody interfere?

The action of the parties at Ashley is in accordance with the constitution and laws of this State. All negroes coming into Illinois are liable to be arrested, placed in jail, advertised as fugitives from labor, and if not recla med, are after a certain time to be sold to whoever will pay their jail expenses and take their labor for the shortest period. The sheriff gives the purchaser a certificate of sale, entitling him to the service and labor of the negro for the period named. Such is the law of this State, and such has been the law for many years. There are, we suppose, at this time not less than one thousand negroes held in this quasi state of slavery. It is no new thing.

The Republicans cannot plead ignorance upon this subject. A few years ago they had a majority of both branches of the Legislature. The direct proposition was made to repeal the law, and it was voted down.

We do not know that anybody can interfere to overturn the laws and constitution of a State, unless it be by way of proclamation. Mr. Lincoln by proclamation abolished the laws and constitutions of eleven States, and possibly he can by the same process abolish slavery in Illinois.

Is there any law in this State similar to that of Illinois? If not, in view of the probable influx of fugitive slaves under Mr. Lincoln's proclamation, there should be one, and it should be drawn so stringently as to keep them from our borders.

"FOR GOD'S SAKE SEND US AID, OR WE PERISH."—The above is one of the sentences in the important dispatches from Jeff. Davis' Government to Europe, captured the other day by our fleet off Charleston, as reported in a special dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette.

[For the Louisville Democrat.]

The Political Situation.

Messrs. Editors: Ten thousand writers daily puzzle their brains in order to keep the public well advised as to "the situation;" every flash of electric lightning from the East or from the West brings us tidings of what our armies are doing; but as we are not entirely a military power, it may not be amiss to say a few words in regard to the political situation; for, after all, this war is to be decided by the people, through the ballot-box, and so long as we allow the Administration to trample under foot the Constitution of our country and to misrepresent the wishes of the people, just so long will this war continue. The conservative citizens of the North, those who love their country, have already said that they disapproved of Abolitionism and Ridicalism; and yet the President, disregarding their wishes and usurping a power not given to him by the Constitution, presumes to make laws under the plea of military necessity. Is this not, I ask, a startling fact? If we allow the Constitution to be violated in any one of its clauses, what assurance have we that we are not ere long in be enslaved under the heel of a military despotism and subjected to all the horrors of a modern vatican? One will say that Lincoln is an honest man—but he God's name how has he proved his honesty? By placing an espionage over our press and over our mails, by imprisoning American citizens without allowing them to be heard in their own vindication, by violating his oath to support and maintain the Constitution of his country against all enemies, foreign or domestic, by breaking his plighted faith with the border States, and lastly by usurping the powers of the government, both civil and military, for partisan purposes. If this is honesty, our dictionary fails to give the proper definition of duplicity, cunning and dishonesty.

The effect of the proclamation has been two fold—it has united the South and threatens to divide the North; and it proves to my mind that, whatever the purpose of the patriotic people may have been in entering into this war, that of the Administration was the abolition of slavery; and I now say to all the world that, if the worst comes to the worst, if a wicked Administration will persist in ruining the country and force the issue on Kentucky, she will fight for the perpetuation of slavery sooner than for its abolition. If we have no Constitution, then we have nothing to fight for save our interests; and our interests are with the Slave States. But on the other hand, if we have a Constitution, then let us preserve it; let Abraham Lincoln be impeached and dismissed from an office he has disgraced; let the conservative people of the North stand with us. We are ready to give all we have, or ever may possess, to maintain the Constitution as it is, and to restore the Union as it was; but the citizens of Kentucky are not willing to spend another cent, nor her soldiers willing to spill another drop of blood, until we know that we are not fighting for a party. I am aware that this is strong language; but stronger, freer words than any I would utter are daily heard in our camps and in our councils, and the feeling is so deep that I fear a storm is brewing which no earthly power can stay. I trust not. I hope not. I have fought shoulder to shoulder with the gallant sons of the North, and, at this moment, I would give my life as freely, to aid in the restoration of the Union, as I would give water to a thirsty man; but I speak the truth when I say that we in Kentucky consider the terms Abolitionist and Secessionist synonomous.

THEOPHILUS, JR.

THE INVENTOR OF IRON-CLADS.—It was stated some time ago that the invention of iron-clad war vessels was due to the genius of a citizen of Connellsville, Fayette county, Pennsylvania, the late Thomas Gregg, who not only deposited a model in the Patent Office, but took out Letters Patent for iron-clad vessels some fifty years ago. Upon examination of his specifications and model recently, it was found they described exactly the far-famed Merrimac. Mr. Gregg's inventiou, at the time, was fifty years ahead of the age, and he died without realizing its advantages. His aged widow still resides at Connellsville, in rather indigent circumstances and, we understand, she is about memorializing Congress for a renewal of the patent, or a compensation from the Government, for the use of the patent, and remuneration for the expenses of her late husband.

AWARDS FOR SUPPLYING GOVERNMENT STORES.—The proposals invited by Captain Ehrman for furnishing Evansville with forage and commissary stores, were opened at the advertised time, and the following awards were made:

COMMISSARY STORES.

J. S. Jaquess & Co., mess pork, $12 44 per bbl; do. flour, $5 47 per bbl.; Geo. Bullen, fresh beef, 4¼ per lb.

FORAGE.

R. S. Rusden, baled hay, $16 90 per ton; Wm. Rahm & Son, loose hay, $10 50 per ton.

CAPT. DOD'S DEPARTMENT.—The following table exhibits the number of soldiers disposed of in different ways by Capt. Dod, Military Commander at Columbus, from June 16 to Dec. 31, 1862:

Sent to Camp Chase	7,362
Sent to regiments, (straggliers)	2,091
Sent to regiments, (deserters)	600
Sent home on furloughs	646
Paroled prisoners sent to Camp Wallace	594
Discharged on certificates of disability	4,233
	15,526

A GOOD CROP.—The steamers Mattie Cook and Hettie Gilmore arrived at Evansville from Bowlinggreen, Monday morning early, with deck crowded with rebel prisoners, who were captured at Murfreesboro. We believe about 1,000 were to be brought down Green river, but the third boat had not arrived up to a late hour in the afternoon. Among the prisoners were a good many officers who were evidently determined to "keep a stiff upper lip."

SUGAR AND MOLASSES.—1,044 hhds sugar and 1,977 bbls molasses were received in New Orleans on the 2d inst. Sugar sold at prices ranging from 6½ to 8½ cents per pound; 200 half-barrels choice new molasses sold at 40 cents. The price ranged from 30 to 35 cents per gallon for common.

ARREST OF TWO OF STUART'S GUIDES.—Lafayette Maddox and A. B. Daniels, have been arrested near Georgetown, on the charge of firing on our pickets, and also serving as guides for Stuart's cavalry in its recent raid, were committed to the Old Capitol in Washington city.

☞A portion of Shackelford's cavalry, under command of Major Holloway, arrived in Henderson a few days ago, with about thirty prisoners captured in the country around Hopkinsville and Russellville.

☞Ninety five patients are reported as at present confined in Gratiot-street prison hospital, St. Louis.

From Yesterday's "Evening News."

ARRIVAL OF SICK AND WOUNDED.—The steamer Emma Duncan, which left Nashville on Saturday, arrived last evening with about 250 privates and about 17 officers from the battlefield at Murfreesboro. The following is a list of the officers who arrived on her, all of whom were wounded:

General Van Cleve.
Colonel Casselly, 69th Ohio.
Colonel Anderson, 6th Ohio
Colonel C. Hines, 57th Indiana.
Lieutenant-Colonel Leonard, 57th Ind.
Colonel M. S. Alexander, 21st Illinois.
Lieutenant Colonel J. C. Alexander.
Colonel Fisell, 96th Ohio.
Colonel Ducat, of Gen Van Cleve's staff.
Lieutenant Colonel Hepburn, of Gen. Rosecrans' staff.
Lieut. Williams, aid to Gen. Van Cleve, not wounded.
Captain Litsou, 23d Indiana.
Captain Holden, 23d Kentucky.
Lieut. Black, 23d Kentucky.
Lieut. Hillis, 15th Ohio.
Lieut. Dunn, 20th Ohio.
Lieutenant-Colonel Sinnan, 9th Indiana.

One died during the trip. His name was Pearcer, and he belonged to the 101st Ohio.

FROM VICKSBURG.—Private John Hinkle, Company A, Twenty-second Kentucky regiment, arrived in this city this morning, from Vicksburg, with the bodies of Captain Wm. P. Hegan, of this city, and Captain Garrard, of Frankfort, Ky. He reports that Company A (Marion Rifles) met with no losses, with the exception of three slightly wounded, Jacob Eddinger, of this city, seriously, and Geo. B. Rammers, Color Corporal, killed.

The flag of the Twenty-second Kentucky was the only colors in DeCourcey's brigade that were brought safely out of the terrible battle. Nick Ember, of this city, fought most gallantly in defense of the flag, and cut a rebel down while attempting to take it from him. It seems that the whole brigade made this flag the rallying point, as no other colors were visible during the engagement. Young Rammers, with others, was buried by the rebels before a flag of truce was permitted to enter the rebel lines.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.—This morning, about 2 o'clock, a terrific explosion occurred in the grocery and produce store of Mr. C. S. Barry, on the corner of Eighth and Jefferson streets. A keg of powder, which was sitting on one of the shelves about the center of the store, exploded suddenly, blowing the front door into the street, and all the windows out of the back part of the building; also tearing out the partition will near where the powder exploded, besides doing other damage to the building and stock.

A lot of matches were stored away on a shelf beside the keg, but it is not known by what cause the explosion took place. Fortunately no one was in the store at the time, though there were some who were asleep in the upper part of the buildins, who were suddenly aroused from their blissful dreams by the sudden report and awful shock. No one was hurt. Mr. B.'s loss is estimated at about $200, perhaps more.

JEFFERSON CIRCUIT COURT—HON. P. B. MUIR, JUDGE—Tuesday, January 13.—Henry Dubois was convicted of the charge of larceny, and his punishment assessed at one year in the penitentiary.

At the hour of adjournment the trial of J. H. Montgomery, charged with the murder of John Gibbs, was progressing.

Indictments were returned by the grand jury against the following persons: John Yeams, John Metz, Alfred Johnson, John Harrison, first name, Lyman Guennipp, and C. G. Bradshaw, for larceny, Aaron Cohn, for murder, and Thomas Cook, alias Read, for burglary.

HORSE CONTRACTS AWARDED.—The following contracts for Government horses were awarded yesterday by Captain W. Jenkins, of the army:

W. B. Hancock, 100 horses at $97 90.
E. A. Smith, 1,000 horses at $98.
Robert H. Bodlow, 50 horses at $93 75.
W. B. Hancock, 100 horses at $98 87.
Isham Henderson, 200 horses at $99.
E. A. Smith, 1,650 horses at $99.

☞Third street, from the Postoffice corner to Broadway, is full of holes worn by the Government wagons and heavy hauling through this leading thoroughfare. A little attention in the way of repairs would be of incalculable advantage now and hereafter.

☞The omnibus line connected with the Louisville and Portland railroad are running now very irregularly. We hope for the benefit of the public that Superintendent Dennis will remedy the wrong, and see that they make regular trips.

☞We are able to furnish our readers with a complete list of the wounded officers and soldiers who arrived on the steamer Emma Duncan last night from Nashville, Tenn.

☞J. T. Patten, 1st Lieutenant company G, 93d Ohio, and John Acker, company G, 24th Ohio, were sent to hospital No. 14 this morning from on board the steamer Emma Duncan.

☞Officers Gallagher, Gilchrist and Tiller yesterday arrested three thieves and put them in jail. One of them had in his pocket a diamond, with which to cut out window-panes.

☞Our accomplished and talented young friend, Alf. B. Hewitt, Esq., places us under many obligations for his many favors. Alf, "we are yours, &c."

☞Mr. Nunnemacher, the Adams Express Company messenger, has our thanks for St. Louis papers in advance of the mails.

☞Another large lot of wounded is expected to arrive here in a day or two.

☞We are indebted to Dr. Ryan for his attentions to our office.

The Maiden to the Moon.

[From the German.]

Oh, Luna! didst thou see
How me my lover kissed?
I must confess to thee
I would not him resist.

But ah, I know not how
The kissing came to be—
If I did it allow,
Oh! if 'twas stolen from me.

How'er that might have been,
Pray to my succor come;
My dear offense to screen,
If asked, oh! moon, be dumb.

LONGWORTH.—Nicholas Longworth, the well-known wine-grower and millionaire of Cincinnati, is represented to be very ill in that city. He is in the eighticth year of his age, is afflicted with paralysis, and is not expected to recover. He has been married over half a century, and a short time ago celebrated, with Mrs. Longworth, their golden wedding.

☞Lloyd's extensive brewery was partially destroyed by fire on Sunday evening, in Cleveland, Ohio. Several persons were severely burned by the explosion of the malt-tank, though all will recover. The loss was very heavy.

AWARDS FOR CAVALRY HORSES.—Capt. F. W. Hurtt, at Cincinnati, has awarded contracts for fifteen hundred cavalry horses, as follows:

L. S. Sayre, 100 at $87 50.
L. S. Sayre, 100 at $92 50.
L. S. Sayre, 100 at $95 00.
Higdon & Co., 1,200 at $96 40.

☞The Colonel, Lieutenant Colonel and Adjutant of the Fifty-seventh Indiana regiment, all wounded, were taken off the steamer Emma Duncan, at Evansville, and sent North by rail.

[For the Louisville Democrat.]

NASHVILLE, Jan. 9, 1863.

Messrs. Editors: In your issue of December 23d you call attention to the want of proper care taken of the wives and children of our soldiers. In the Gazette of the same date appears a general order, from which it appears that an agent has been appointed by Governor Tod, and approved by the Secretary of War, whose business it is to look after discharged soldiers and enable them to collect their pay, &c., without being compelled to pay for doing what the State ought to have done for them.

An effort has been lately made, I believe, to get Gov. Robinson to appoint a similar agent for Kentucky. From what I have been able to see and hear, Kentucky needs such an agent about as much as any other State, many of the officers being negligent in providing their men with the proper papers, necessary to them on entering our hospitals, or procuring their discharge from the service when crippled by disease and wounds received in the cause of their country.

It is hoped that some effort will be made by which Kentucky soldiers will at least be placed on as good a footing (and secured from sharpers) as soldiers of any other State.

A CONSTANT READER.

THE ALABAMA.—The London Daily News concludes an editorial on the case of the Alabama in the following language:

The only thing to consider now is the course the Government ought to pursue. Having sent down the order to detain the Alabama, the Government must admit that she was built and equipped in violation of the law. It remains for them to repair, as far as possible, the injury, and to prevent its recurrence. In cases such as this what is to be done? The Confederate Government has violated the sovereignty of this country by getting a man-of-war built in a British port. This is an offense against our national dignity. What is the remedy? Does it not entitle us to demand an apology and compensation? And what compensation can be more fit than the disarmament of the vessel, and the payment of such damages as may be required to satisfy the claims for the Federal and neutral property which has been destroyed? If these demands are justified by the laws of nations, it is our obvious duty to make them without delay.

NARROW ESCAPE OF THE ALABAMA.—The Navy Department have information that the Alabama arrived at the desert Island of Blanquitta, off the coast of Venezuela, in 12 30 north latitude and about 55 deg. from Green which, west longitude, on the 12th ult., meeting there by appointment a coal vessel, which carried her on that and the next day, on the evening of which she again put to sea. Finding there two American whalers, her commander took their captains out of them—in the harbor—and put and kept them in irons until his vessel was ready to depart, lest they might sail off and give information to some United States war vessel of his movements. On the next morning—the 13th ult.—the U. S. steamer San Jacinto arrived there, but the game had been off twenty four hours.—Star.

FIRST KENTUCKY REGIMENT.—Our Nashville telegram stated yesterday, that the First Kentucky infantry lost several wounded but none killed, in the recent battle near Murfreesboro. We yesterday met Captain Joseph Wheeler, formerly commandant of company A, of the First, who had just received a letter from the First Lieutenant of his former command, stating that Joseph Neyden, Patrick Rice, George Rice and Ed. Williams, all of company A, had been killed. Three others were wounded, one named —— Riley having both legs shot off by a round shot. The letter also stated that Captain Becker, of company K, and Lieutenant Farran, of the same regiment, were both missing, having, it is thought, been taken prisoners.—[Hart. Conn., 13th.

ANOTHER MISTAKE.—One of the most accomplished and gallant officers in the service, General Sherman, was displaced from the command of the army before Vicksburg, and a political General put in his place. Reverses and disasters follow as a consequence. It is now stated in officiel circles that McClernand is solely responsible for the recent disaster at that place, and it is intimated that the President will promptly dismiss him from the service. What else but reverses and slaughter can be expected when an inexperienced and incompetent officer is put in a position which requires military skill, experience and genius of the highest order? Second-Hand Love is Best.

When first he talked to me of love—
A savant in its tactics—
I felt quite thankful some one else
Had had his early practice.
Now, do you think that second loves
Have cause for dark reflection?
Practice improves in everything,
And love is no exception

☞The following are among the noted arrivals recently in New Orleans:

Commodore Foote (Charles Nestel) was born in Indiana and is 21 years of age, 28 inches high, and weighs not quite 28 pounds. Colonel Small (Jos. Hunter) is a native of Germany, and is in his 15th year, 26½ inches high and weighs 28 pounds. Their levees are held daily.

☞One of the boats that went from the Rhode Island to the Monitor (the one we believe that was missing, but has since appeared), was commanded by a son of Captain William Brown, of the steamer Metropolis, of the Fall River Line.

BUTLER'S BROTHER.—The Matamoras Flag states that Gen. Butler's brother was but recently engaged at Brownsville, opposite that place, in selling to a Confederate Commissary United States barrel pork, taking his pay in cotton!

☞A. C. Webster, a Captain under Pierpont, was captured recently and sent on to Richmond to be tried for the murder of Capt. Simpson, a Confederate prisoner of war. He is confined in Castle Thunder.

☞The Natchez Courier announces the death of George Prentiss, only son of the late Sargent S. Prentiss, the distinguished orator. He was a member of the Natchez Southrons, and died of camp fever.

☞The six States of New England, with a population of 3,136,000, have twelve votes in the United States Senate, and the State of New York, with a population of 3,881,100, has two votes in that body.

☞Tacitus says: "In the early ages man lived a life of innocence and simplicity." Upon this a critic remarks: "When was this period of innocence? The first woman went astray. The very first man that was born in the world killed the second. When did the time of simplicity begin?"

☞An old lady 70 years of age beat off a midnight burglar who entered her house in Middlebury, Vt., one night last week, her only weapon being her valor and a large iron candlestick.

☞The Grenada Appeal, now issued at Jackson, Miss., comes out ardently for peace, and its editor wishes to be made a commissioner to the North to urge the necessity of a cessation of hostilities.

☞Gen. McNeil, whose shooting of ten prisoners at Palmyra, Mo., has been made the subject of much comment, was presented with a five hundred dollar sword, in St. Louis, on Monday night.

THE EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—Major-General John E. Wool has been appointed to the command of the Eastern Department, vice Edwin D. Morgan, resigned. He will make his headquarters at Albany.

☞Peter Coyle, of East Providence, has raised a pig, two years old, which weighs nine hundred and forty-two pounds, live weight.

[Providence Post.

That's a whopper!

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER.—Out of seven hundred men of the Thirty-ninth Indiana, that went into the fight at Murfreesboro, only one hundred and forty were left.

☞The U. S. mail steamship left New Orleans for New York, on the 21 inst., with a large amount of freight and 48 passengers.

☞Gen. Butler, while in Philadelphia, paid a quiet visit to Gen. McClellan. The interview was a private one.

☞Trees are budding at Rochester, New York, and at Gloucester, Mass.

THE ORPHANS' FAIR.—Notwithstanding the very inclement weather last evening, the Orphans' Fair was very well attended. The hall is most beautifully decorated, the tables being bountifully supplied and handsomely ornamented. The Italian refreshment table, in charge of Mrs. Raggio, Mrs. Botto, and Mrs. Garcin, is the finest we have ever seen, as also the large and magnificent table, adorned with all the delicacies of the season, which is in charge of Mrs. Lowry, Mrs. Gorman, Miss Butler, and others. The orphans' table reflects much credit on the taste and management of Mrs. Dr. O'Riley and Mrs. Buckner. We noticed some of the finest specimens of needle-work on this table that we have ever seen. St. John's table, in charge of Mrs. W. Osborn, Mrs. Metcalfe, and others, presented a fine appearance. The wheel of fortune, in charge of Mrs. Nicholas, will be found to contain many lucky prizes. Altogether, the Orphan's Fair is one of the finest ever gotten up in this city, and should be liberally patronized. It will be open every evening this week.

A SPLENDID SUPPER.—Among the many attractions at the Orphans' Fair, now in progress in the Masonic Temple, we noticed last evening the refreshment table prepared by the unrivalled Pargay, of this city. It is handsomely ornamented with everything rich, rare, and beautiful. A mammoth and splendid nuga pyramid, nice boned turkey, chicken salads, with choice maccaroni, jellies, fine cakes, oysters, fish, wines, &c., all served as only Pargay (who is celebrated), is capable of preparing. This splendid table is under the skilful management of Mrs. Gorman and Mrs. Norris, both of this city, to whom we offer our many thanks and indebtedness for the magnificent supper last night, and to whom we offer our best wishes for their success and prosperity in life, and the good work they are now so benevolently and earnestly engaged in. Ladies, we thank you.

THEATER.—To night there is to be a grand laughing festival at the theater, with two brilliant stars in the firmament, both Miss Sallie St. Clair and Mr. Charles Barras appearing in the celebrated comedy of "The Serious Family;" the former as the rollicking "Widow Delmaine," and the latter as "Aminidab Sleek"—parts in which they are said to be unapproachable. Miss St. Clair, who is equally at home in all the varied roles of the drama, appears also as "Kitty Vinks," in the new and highly successful comedietta of "The Young Rebel."

THE "OLD RELIABLE."—We call the attention of shippers to the advertisement of J. C. Buckles, in our columns this morning. He gives some directions which, if merchants and shippers will observe, they may facilitate their shipping east.

FOR NASHVILLE.—The elegant passenger steamer White Rose, Capt. Whittaker, will leave this afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Passengers will find her a pleasant boat to travel on. Apply on board, at the foot of First street.

HIGH SCHOOL LECTURES.—The first lecture of the second series of the Male High School course will be delivered to-night, at half-past 7 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

☞We publish to-day a complete list of the killed and wounded in the 21st Kentucky Regiment Volunteers, kindly furnished us by Surgeon C. J. Walton, of the same regiment.

☞The Curd House, in Lexington, is offered for sale. See advertisement.

FROM MURFREESBO

The Anderson Cavalry—Majors Rosengarten and Ward—The Mutineers and an Order from General Rosecrans.

Mr. Wm. W. Ward, of Pittsburg, arrived last evening from Murfreesboro, with the bodies of his brother, Major Frank B. Ward, of the Anderson Cavalry, and Colonel Hobson, of the Seventy-seventh Pennsylvania Infantry. The bodies were forwarded last night by express, and Mr. Ward himself left for Pittsburg. From him we learn many items of interest to the public at large, and especially to the friends of the Andersons. Mr. Ward rode over the battle field, and having been at Auburn, is of the opinion that the battle of Stone river, or Murfreesboro, was much the fiercer of the two. That after the cutting off of the provision train, Rosecrans and his staff subsisted for two days on corn, and all of the army on short rations of flour, with now and then a slice of uncooked beef; but they pushed bravely and determinedly through it all, and won a glorious, though dearly-bought victory.

The three hundred Anderson cavalry in the fight, made a charge on a regiment of rebels, believed to be Mississippians, posted behind a fence. In the charge seventy-nine were killed and wounded. Major Rosengarten had a hand-to-hand encounter with a rebel after his sword was bent double. He received five shots, three of them in the head. Major Ward was shot through the lungs with an English musket ball, the shot cutting also the casing of the heart. He was removed to the house of Dr. Manson, in Murfreesboro, who was a rebel, but the Doctor and his wife both paid as much attention, were as kind and solicitous for Frank's recovery as if he had been their own son. Charlie Ward was in Murfreesboro Christmas night, but left before our forces arrived. A Mississippi Captain, who, with a squad of men recaptured Dr. Manson's house, sent word to Charlie that Frank was dying, but before he could arrive our forces again captured the house, and the two brothers failed to meet. Frank died Monday, and his body was immediately brought to Nashville, and thus on to this city.

We learn that Sunday night last a flag of truce party, consisting of five rebels, came into Murfreesboro with the excuse of accompanying some ladies who returned to look after their wounded friends; but the circumstances were such as to cause quite a suspicion, and the five men were arrested by General Rosecrans' orders as spies. Another spy was captured and sent to Nashville—a woman dressed in male attire. The same night a fire broke out in Murfreesboro, destroying eight houses. The circumstance could not be explained, and it was supposed to have been the efforts of some rebel emissaries to destroy the town. The reports of letter-writers about small pox being so prevalent in Murfreesboro are untrue, the number of cases does not exceed twenty, and the health and spirits of the army are of the best.

Saturday and Sunday Gen. Rosecrans' supply trains, three of them, numbering altogether about 1,200 wagons, arrived in Murfreesboro, and reinforcements were pouring in so rapidly that it was evident General Rosecrans intended to push on immediately.

In reference to the mutiny of a portion of the Anderson Cavalry, Mr. Ward learned that their complaints of not being properly officered were not true, though they may have believed them to be true; that Gen. Rosecrans himself had sent for commission the names of numbers of the old guard, who were well qualified for the positions for which he recommended them. The mutiny is greatly deplored by all—by none more than the friends of the Andersons.

Gen. Rosecrans issued the following field order in reference to this case:

DEPARTMENT OF THE CUMBERLAND,
HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE OHIO,
MURFREESBORO, TENN., Jan. 9, 1863.

Special Field Orders No. 6.

XVIII. The General commanding announces his high satisfaction with those brave and determined men of the Anderson Guards, who promptly marched, under the gallant Majors, Rosengarten and Ward, to aid him in his advance on Murfreesboro. These young soldiers and their brave commander vied with our most veteran cavalry in their steadiness under fire, and the intrepidity of their advance on the enemy, and nobly sustained the honor already won by the Seventh Pennsylvania cavalry for the Keystone State. While he deplores the early death of brave young Rosengarten, the sorrow he feels at his loss is mingled with a soldier's pride, to know that he fell like a hero, and for the sacred cause of nationality. He trusts that Major Ward, recovering from his desperate but honorable wounds, will live to gather fresh laurels on many a field in his country's service.

The General commanding is grieved to learn that about seven hundred of these noble Guards—said to belong to families of good standing at home—have chosen, under some pretext or other, not to follow their companions-in-arms to the field, to share with them the dangers and the glories of the Fourteenth Army Corps.

He cannot imagine what could have moved men in whom he laid such hopes, to a course so base and selfish. He cannot conceive how they could shame their own kin, and stain the clear honor of their native State, by conduct not merely appearing base and cowardly, but so criminal as to deserve the penalty of death.

Before proceeding to do what his duty requires, and having them dealt with as their conduct merits—before covering them with that deserved infamy which will blast them forever in the esteem of their fellows—the General commanding wishes this order read to them; and, to all who are not too lost to a sense of honor, to step forth and coolest that whatever may have been their private wants and griefs, the hour of their country's need and peril was not the time to stand back and falter, or expose their brothers in-arms to danger and death without help. Let them resolve on some reparation which will give them an opportunity to save some of them from impending disgrace and ruin.

By command of Major-General Rosecrans.

C. GODDARD,
A. A. Gen'l and Chief of Staff.

Mr. Ward informs us that a daily mail is carried between Nashville and Murfreesboro, and though some fears have been entertained of guerrillas attacking it, they had not done so yet. He came through with the mail carrier to Nashville.

We also learn from him that from the present forward state of the repairs to the trestle-work at Muldraugh's Hill, a very few days more will put the road in complete running order through from Nashville to this city.

Notice.

HEADQUARTERS LOUISVILLE BARRACKS,
LOUISVILLE, KY., January 14, 1863.

It having been reliably reported at these headquarters, that certain persons in Louisville have represented themselves as attorneys employed by the United States, to obtain the discharge papers and pay for disabled soldiers, the undersigned would caution the soldiers against such fraud. The Government has no such employees, and soldiers who pay lawyers fees to procure their discharge or pay, are grossly swindled. The Commandant of the post and Paymaster, whose duty it is to discharge and pay disabled soldiers, will perform their duties promptly, without the interference of petti oggers. Soldiers are further cautioned against paying fees to any person, citizen, agent, orderly or officer, for the procurement of their discharge or pay, as all such executions are illegal.

DANCING SCHOOL.—The attention of pupils is directed to the card of Mr. H. Blendowski, in this morning's paper. He has the reputation of being an adept in art, and is solicited to open a dancing school in our city. His classes meet at Odd Fellows' Hall every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

RIVER NEWS.

The river fell slowly yesterday, and at dark last evening, was about at a stand, with five feet ten inches water in the canal. Yesterday we had a constant rain, which was mingled with sleet after dark last night, with a cold wind from the northwest. As it is raining at Pittsburg and Nashville, and all along the Ohio, and no doubt the Cumberland, we may look for full rivers, if not a flood.

The arrivals and departures yesterday were few, and business very dull: The Major Anderson, Cincinnati; Star Gray Eagle, Henderson; Emma Duncan, from Nashville; Emma No. 2 and Izetta, from Cincinnati to load for Nashville, and the Navigator to Nashville. These were all.

FOR CINCINNATI.—The General Buell is the mail-boat at noon to-day.

We find the following special from Evansville in yesterday's Cincinnati Gazette:

The J. H. Baldwin, with 250 wounded from Murfreesboro, bound for Louisville, passed about three o'clock this evening.

The Duke, from Bowlinggreen, with another load of rebels, arrived about three o'clock this afternoon. This lot, with those that arrived yesterday, makes 57 officers and 903 privates. They are guarded by the 11th Kentucky, Col. Hawkins. The officers go to Camp Chase from here, and the men to Vicksburg on the steamer Courier, for immediate exchange.

WANTED.—A berth as second clerk (steamboat) by one initiated. Address C, Louisville Postoffice. ja15 d3

Cure for Dyspepsia.

MR. EDITOR: I feel it due to those who are suffering from dyspepsia to state a remedy, which I have been advised to use, and which has effected a cure. I was afflicted with the unpleasant consequences of indigestion last winter and spring, till my health was despaired of. I have been an opposer to patent medicines generally, but was induced to use "Dr. Roback's Stomach Bitters," manufactured in your city. One bottle has relieved me of all those symptoms, and I can now gratify a good appetite upon the luxuries of this bountiful season, without experiencing the exceedingly unpleasant effects which eating even light food caused me a few months since.

I love this medicine to be good and effective in those diseases of the st mach for which it is recommended. I write this without the knowledge of Doctor Roback or any one concerned, and do it first of all for the good of those suffering from indigestion and its kindred results.

We know the writer of the above, and that he is what he professes to be—a minister and a gentleman of truth.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.

The President laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Interior, asking for an offer of $50,000, $20,000 to be applied to be applied to the support of the Utah Indians. Referred and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Trumbull reported back the House bill to give aid to the State of Missouri in emancipating her slaves, with an amendment.

Mr. Wilson reported back the bill to consolidate the regiments now in field. Also to appoint three auditors in the Quartermaster's Department, and an increase of the clerks' force in the Postmaster General's office.

Mr. Latham reported a back bill for the better organization of the Subsistence Department.

Mr. Harlan offered a resolution instructing the Committee on the Conduct of the War, to inquire whether vessels or other means of transportation, under the control of the War Department, have been used to convey disloyal women and other disloyal persons from places under the control of the rebels to places within the United States lines, or from places in the loyal States to places within the rebel lines; and if so what vessels were thus used, under whose control, and by what authority; and particularly whether the steames New York and Metamor, or either of them, were thus used, what number of persons were thus transported, and the amount of property and effects transported by each person; and whether persons of African descent, either slave or free, were thus transported at the request of said disloyal women, and if so by what order were such persons of African descent thus conveyed within rebel lines, and whether any legislation is necessary to prevent such practices. Adopted.

Mr. Wilkinson called up the joint resolution to annul the treaties and forfeit the lands and annuities of the Sioux Indians.

On motion of Mr. Doolittle, the resolution was postponed and made the special order for Wednesday, the 21st, when the whole subject of the State of Minnesota should be decided.

On Motion of Mr. Saulsbury, the bill for the reorganization of the Court of Claims was taken up.

Mr. Hale moved to postpone the bill indefinitely.

After some discussion the motion was rejected by 11 to 29.

Mr. Grimes moved to strike out the 1st section, which provides for two additional judges.

The motion was rejected.

The Senate, after executive session, adjourned.

HOUSE.

Mr. Stevens reported a joint resolution to provide for the immediate payment of the army and navy.

The joint resolution authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury, if required by the exigencies of the public service to issue, on the credit of the United States, $5,000,000 United States notes, in such form as he may deem expedient, bearing interest, payable on demand, in denominations of not less than $1, which notes shall be a lawful and legal tender, like similar notes heretofore authorized and receivable in payment of all debts, both public and private, except duties on imports and the payment of the principal and interest on the public debt. The issue of notes herein provided for must be deducted from the amount in any bill now pending, or which may here after be passed by Congress.

Mr. Stevens said he and learned, both here and in the Senate, that the loan bill, providing ways and means for the support of the Government, would not probably be passed within two weeks hence. This bill was introduced.

Mr. Lovejoy suggested that the resolution be amended so as to provide for the issue of $1,000,000 000 of United States notes. The amendment was agreed to. The joint resolution was then passed.

Mr. Ho man offered a resolution that Simon Stevens, while before the select committee on Government Contracts, had refused to answer a question proposed to him as to the terms and conditions of the labor contract for storing and delivering foreign goods in New York, and as to how much he (Stevens) had received for the same. Thereupon, that the Sergeant-at-Arms be directed to bring Simon Stevens before the Bar of the House of Representatives for contempt of its authority. The resolution was passed.

The House proceeded to the consideration of Mr. Wright's resolution, declaring the rebellion wicked and without reasonable cause. That the war was inaugurated solely for the suppression of the rebellion and the restoration of the Union. The question pending on Vallandigham's was admitted.

Mr. Valandigham addressed the House, to-day that the war ought to cease, and the rebellion is possible and inevitable, unless driven by the folly of public men and the people. He was aware of the Tantic and the Sottron, the Chevalier and Roundhead.

Mr. Bingham replied, characterizing his colleague's speech as another apology for the rebellion. He did not believe that Mr. Vallandigham was authorized by his master, Jeff. Davis, to say the Union would be restored if we disbanded our armies.

Mr. Wright pointed to Southern declarations to show the rebels all against reunion. And then the House adjourned.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, } January 14, 1863. }

No Southern papers have been received today.

Returns at the Head Director's office show a remarkable exemption from sickness among the troops for this season of the year.

FORTRESS MONROE, Jan. 13.

The Richmond Examiner of the 12th says, we believe the theatre of war, on a large scale, is about to be transferred to North Carolina. Stirring scenes are imminent.

Kirby Smith and staff arrived in Richmond on Saturday morning, from the West.

To-day at noon both of the Houses of Congress convene.

The President has his message ready to send in, and it is said to be the longest he has yet prepared, covering thirty pages of foolscap paper.

On Saturday about 150 Yankee deserters took the oath to the Confederate Government, and were discharged from prison upon their parole of honor. Among them are many artisans and workmen of various crafts, who will be useful in the Government employ.

Four thousand Yankee prisoners are on their way to Richmond from Chattanooga. They were taken at Murfreesboro. They will reach here to-day and to-morrow. This is the only Yankee army that will ever reach Richmond.

The Dispatch of the 13th says the North Carolina papers indicate a manifest uneasiness, not for Wilmington and the country east of Raleigh, but for the capital itself.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.

The Committee on Naval Affairs have, according to the resolution passed on Monday, commenced an inquiry into the practicability of connecting all our naval and military stations between Fortress Monroe and New Orleans by submarine telegraph cables. C. W. Field, of New York, has presented to the Government an offer from the firm of Messrs. Glass, Elliott & Co., to manufacture submarine cables connecting all the points between Washington and New Orleans. They are to be paid only on the successful completion and delivering to the Government of the line in good order; in other words, they take the entire risk of manufacture, shipping across the ocean, laying down, and working the line, &c. There seems no doubt that Congress will, without unnecessary delay, give them the contract.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.

The Post has the following special dispatch from Washington of the 14th:

Our blockading fleet has just captured some very important dispatches from Jeff. Davis and his Secretary of State to Mason, Slidell, and others in Europe. These dispatches give many important facts in regard to the condition of the rebels. They give the strongest statements of the desperate straits to which the rebel leaders are reduced, and show that unless they can quickly get relief, either from Europe or by dividing the free States and paralizing the efforts of the government, they must give up their bad cause for lost. These dispatches arrived here yesterday. They were put up in a tin box, loaded with lead at one end, so as to sink quickly in an emergency, but our sailors were too quick for them.

BOSTON, Jan. 14.

Gov. Andrew, in his address at the reception of the California cavalry to-day, said this morning he received assurances from Washington that the tender of a whole cavalry battalion from California was accepted, and notice has been telegraphed to San Francisco that the battalion will be counted as a part of the contingent of Massachusetts.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 14.

Gov. Olden's message was received this morning. It says the Government owes the State $400,000. He urges the prosecution of the war for the Constitution. He thinks the patriotism and loyalty of the people ought not to lag in consequence of errors or differences in regard to the policy of the Government.

Both Houses agreed to go into joint session for the election of a United States Senator, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of J. R. Thompson.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.

Sailed—Ship B. F. Hoxie and Massellon.

The colored people are having a jubilee today in honor of the Emancipation Proclamation.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 4.

The Legislature, in joint convention to-day, elected T. A. Hendricks and David Turpie, United States Senators—the latter for the short term.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 14.

Three of our boats were attacked yesterday, by Wheeler's rebel cavalry, with a battery, at Harpeth Shoals. The Trio, with two hundred sick and wounded, was fired into and her men were captured and paroled. Other boats, with commissary stores, were burned. Our gunboat Sidell engaged the rebels, but surrendered. Her guns were thrown overboard and the boat burned. Lieut. Van Dorn is a prisoner.

It is raining heavily, and the river is rapidly rising.

CAIRO, Jan. 14

The steamer Grampus, lying at the mouth of Wolf river, was surprised and captured by thirteen rebels Sunday night, five miles above Memphis, stripped and burned.

The evacuation of Holly Springs is confirmed.

It is reported in Memphis that 8,000 rebels arrived at Lumkins' Mills, six miles below Holly Springs.

The Bulletin thinks the expedition of White river has already reached Little Rock, having left on the 5th.

BOSTON, Jan. 14.

The public reception and welcome to the California cavalry took place to-day, and notwithstanding the bad weather, it was a very interesting and cordial affair.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 14.

Mr. Burnett, of St. Louis, introduced into the House a series of joint resolutions sustaining the President's emancipation proclamation in Missouri, to refer it to the Committee on Federal relations. An exciting debate ensued which lasted till the adjournment.

The receipts of logs for the week foot up 12,015, swelling the aggregate for the season to 562,582. The packing, it is now believed, will exceed 600,000 head. These heavy receipts and unfavorable weather could not depress prices 25c, but the market closed pretty firm at 5 00@5 75.

ICE—Get in a full supply as soon as sufficiently thick and solid. In the better preservation of food in hot weather, and in case of sickness alone, it may be worth its full cost, to say nothing of the luxury of having at hand a supply of "pickled coolness" in mid summer weather. Ice is not difficult to keep. A rough shed about 12 feet square and 10 or 12 feet high, well roofed and out of the sun, with enough of clean sawdust to fill in five or six inches thick between the ice and the boards, and also to cover it well, will preserve enough ice for a season's supply for an ordinary family. If the shed is not built, erect the frame and cover it; then pack in the ice in freezing weather, and sprinkle on water enough to fill up and make the pile a solid block. Then commence at the bottom to fasten on the outside boards and fill in the sawdust as the boards rise. A double frame, that would admit of sliding the boards in between the posts, would enable the filling to be done in this way year after year.—[Am. Agricul.

An icehouse can be easily and cheaply made in the corner of a cellar. By having the drain pass through the cellar and an opening near the top toward the cellar, the desired coolness is secured to this department, specially needed in winter as well as in summer, for the better preservation of fruits and vegetables. Many cellars are much too warm in winter. If kept as near to the freezing point as possible without freezing, fruits and vegetables can scarcely decay. On this principle, well known to all close observers of nature as well as to students of chemistry, a man in Michigan has lately devised a cellar for which he has taken out a patent. The patent can of course cover only his plan—not the principle.

Seasonable Directions for Mess Pork.

The following standard rules, known as "Getty's Directions," are those given for putting up Prime Mess Pork, to meet the requirements of the English market. They are also adopted and made imperative in the contracts given out for Army Supplies by the United States Government:

QUALITY AND WEIGHT OF PIGS.—The pigs to weigh from one hundred to one hundred and sixty pounds each, and to be in good condition, strictly corn-fed or hard pork. For the United States army the weight may be extended to one hundred and seventy pounds.

PARTS EXCLUDED.—The head is to be excluded, also the fore leg up to the breast or brisket, the hind leg including the hock or gambrel joint, and the rump, if the hams are not cut up with the sides.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A BARREL OF PRIME MESS.—A barrel of Prime Mess Pork consists of fifty pieces of four pounds each. If the hams are cut up and put in, there shall not be less than twenty three side-pieces; if without hams, not less than thirty side-pieces.

HOW TO CUT AND CURE.—After the pig has been split through the back, cut each side longitudinally into two strips; pack the strips into large casks or vats, and fill up with brine, having saltpeter added at the rate of one ounce to three gallons of brine; leave the strips in the brine for eight or ten days to extract the blood, and for the lean meat to take a pink color.

When ready to be packed into barrels, have each strip carefully cleaned, using a knife and brush if necessary; cut them into four-pound pieces as nearly as may be: Mess (select the pieces) as indicated, and pack neatly and compactly in layers, with sufficient salt to preserve it.

BARRELS.—The barrel should be twenty-eight inches long, and seventeen and a half inches over the end (when finished), made of seasoned white oak tree from sap, and bound with hickory or white oak hoops, and one iron hoop (one inch wide) on each end next below the chime hoop.

THEORY OF MESSING.—Pigs averaging say one hundred and forty five pounds will work up in messing about as follows: When the side, including the ham, is cut up there will be twenty-three or twenty-four pieces of side-meat, eight pieces of ham and saddle, and eighteen or nineteen of shoulder and neck to the barrel; excluding the hams, the number of side-pieces will be increased to thirty-one or thirty-two. In no case should there be more than six pieces of the leg part of the shoulder put into a barrel.

How Corn is Made in Egypt (Ill.).

[The following plain, straight-forward account of the mode of cultivating corn in Southern Illinois, from Wm. O. Marvin, of Randolph county, will give a partial picture of farm-life there, and perhaps afford a hint or two. The plan described is doubtless susceptible of improvement. A brief description of the methods pursued in different sections, not only with corn but other crops, would be useful to others:]

We prefer for Indian corn, wheat stubble unbroken until plowed for planting in the spring: First, the cut worms trouble it very little; second, should the season be dry it bears the drouth much better than our other lands; and third, such land is most easily kept clean. The plowing should be at least eight inches deep, and all the growth of weeds and grass be turned to the bottom. After it is well broken, we lay it off one way in rows four feet apart, and five to six inches deep, with a one-horse plow. It is then crossed with the marker, making six rows to the round. Our children usually drop the seed. Some cover it by throwing on a hoe, and some two furrows with the single plow, and just before it is up, harrow it down level. Others cover with the harrow alone. Others cover by dragging a suitable log stone across the rows, which is by no means a bad way, as we have no stones in our fields to interfere with culture. But we think the hoe is the best implement of all to cover with, and this is the only use we make of the hoe in producing the crop.

When the corn is up so that it can be worked, we remove the front tooth (or share) from a cultivator, and with a span of horses run it astride the rows, first one way, and then across. This works the soil between the rows, and chops up to the hills, in both directions, leaving it clean and in a condition little inferior to the best hoeing, and the hills are made around the corn. [This lets in the sun to warm the roots and promote their growth.] The labor is not half that of hoeing. The after culture depends upon circumstances. If rains harden the surface, the plow may be required. After plowing, a one-horse cultivator is run between the rows to level off the surface, as we prefer flat culture to high ridging around the hills. By the above process we get, in common years, from forty to sixty bushels per acre, according to the quality and condition of the soil.

German Economy.

Some of the most pleasant pictures of rural life in Europe are those drawn by Mr. Howitt. Particularly in Germany does he find much to interest him. One thing which struck him quite forcibly, was the carefulness with which the country people save everything which can be turned to use. For instance, the roadside is not always set with forest trees for shade and ornament, but is planted with fruit trees, and these are protected and cultivated hardly less than those of the orchard and garden. Again, more pains are taken than with us in saving and drying all kinds of fruit for domestic use and for sale in market. Cows are not generally pastured in summer, but are kept in sheds or small yards, where they are fed in various ways. Grass and clover, refuse fruits, vegetables and meal, etc., are carefully provided for this purpose. In some cases the women and children go out with sickle and basket, to cut up and gather grass and weeds from the roadside; the boys go into the marshes and woods to gather tall grass and even to cut shrubbery, all for the useful cow. Yes, the useful cow; for not only is every drop of her milk saved and turned to account, but her other droppings are assiduously collected, and applied where most useful.

The tops of potatoes, refuse of hemp, and stalks of beans serve as bedding for the cow; and even the rough stalks of poppies, after the heads have been gathered for oil and seed, are converted into manure for the land. Children are often sent into the woods to collect baskets and bags of moss for cattle bedding, which afterward goes into manure. In autumn, the falling leaves by the roadside and every where are swept up and stacked for the same purpose. The cones of evergreens are gathered and dried for lighting fires. While the women are tending their poultry and their cows, the knitting needles keep constantly going. In short, the Germans seem to have reduced the scriptural precept to systematic practice: "Gather up the fragments, that nothing be lost." And this same frugality and industry, we are glad to see, prevails widely among the Germans who have chosen this country for their home. With such habits of living, joined with virtue, they are sure to prosper.
